Special Handling Labels

Not every shipment fits neatly into a single category, which is what Special Handling Labels are designed for. Our broad collections covers a wide range of instructions and warnings that fall outside standard shipping labels, such as communicating to workers who speak different languages, temperature alert labels, eye-catching fluorescent labels, and labels that restrict certain actions or indicate that documents are inside. Whatever your shipment requires, Special Handling labels help make sure that handlers at every step of the journey know exactly what to and not to do with your package.
